Your change essay is well informed with stating your change. There are some paragraphs that you could combine since they only consist of one sentence. There are some punctuation missing in your essay. Overall your change essay is good.

The opening is an overall introduction to the reader's personal relationships, talents and hobbies.

I think that the opening of your paper is good. Maybe it could be more intriguing if you write about your struggles and determination earlier.

The ending gave closure to the essay and connected the change. At first this writer stated her desire to play the keyboard but then she had a fixed mindset that stopped her from pursuing to learn to play the keyboard then her instructor helped her change her mindset and to trust in the Lord that she was able to change and learn to be a good keyboard player and teach and mentor others to do the same.

I think you ending is gerat, but I think you should end focusing on the changes that you have experienced.

The tone the writer used in her change essay was clear for me to understand her message.
